BEFORE THE DEPARTMENT OF CORPORATIONS
OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA

In the Matter of the Desist and Refrain Order Issued Against:

STEVE O. COOPER, SR., PEGGY SUE
COOPER, MICHAELE. STEVENSON,
M.E. STEVENSON, INC. and YEMI

Respondents.

Case No. ENF 7078
OAH No. L2006010092

FINAL DECISION (AFTER REJECTION OF PROPOSED DECISION) AND ORDER

I

PROCEDURAL HISTORY

On March 6, 2006, in San Diego, California, James Ahler, Administrative Law Judge, Office of Administrative Hearings, State of California, heard this matter. Lindsay B. Herrick, Corporations Counsel, represented complainant, the California Corporations Commissioner. Respondent Michael E. Stevenson, who was present throughout the hearing, represented himself, M.E. Stevenson, Inc. and Yemi Ogunbase. Yemi Ogunbase did not personally appear. Steven O. Cooper, Sr., Peggy Sue Cooper, and SOCM Enterprises, Inc. entered into a written stipulation on March 2, 2006, and did not appear at the hearing. Oral and documentary evidence was received and the matter was submitted for decision.

1 On March 8, 2006, the Administrative Law Judge submitted a Proposed Decision, which 2 was rejected by the California Corporations Commissioner on June 7, 2006. Pursuant to 3 Section 11517(c) of the Government Code, Michael E. Stevenson, M.E. Stevenson, Inc., 4 and Yemi Ogunbase were served with the Notice of Nonadoption of Proposed Decision, 5 and were notified that the case would be decided by the California Corporations 6 Commissioner upon the record, including the transcript of the proceedings held on March 7 6, 2006, and upon any written argument offered by the parties. Respondents submitted 8 no written arguments. Lindsay B. Herrick, Corporations Counsel, on behalf of the 9 Department of Corporations, submitted written argument on June 23, 2006.

12 FACTUAL FINDINGS

13 The Regulation of the Offer and Sale of Securities

14 1. The Federal Government entered the area of securities regulation in 1933, 15 following the 1929 stock market crash. The first effort at regulation, the Securities Act of 16 1933, was followed shortly thereafter by the Securities Exchange Act of 1934. Other 17 special federal acts have followed since then. The Securities and Exchange Commission 18 (SEC) directly enforces the federal security laws through the Securities Act of 1934 and it 19 indirectly enforces those federal laws through oversight of the National Association of 20 Securities Dealers (NASD) and the stock exchanges.

21 2. State securities laws, commonly known as Blue Sky laws, have been enacted in 22 all states. They regulate to some degree, the offer, subscription, sale and issue of shares 23 of stock and other securities. These laws were enacted to protect the public from 24 insubstantial, unlawful, and fraudulent stock and investment schemes, and to promote full 25 disclosure of all information necessary to enable investors to make informed and 26 intelligent decisions.

27 3. California's Blue Sky law – known as the Corporate Securities Law of 1968 – is set 28 forth at California Corporations Code section 25000 et seq. It regulates the offer and sale

1 of securities in California and requires registration of broker-dealers and stockbrokers 2 doing business in California.

3 4. Before a "security"<sup>1</sup> is sold in California, it must be qualified with the Department of 4 Corporations, unless an exemption exists. Many securities and many security 5 transactions are exempt from or are preempted from state regulation by federal law.<sup>2</sup>

6 5. Qualification in California may be accomplished by a number of means including 7 (a) coordination of a security for which a registration statement was filed under the 8 Securities Act of 1933 (Corp. Code § 25111), (b)(i) notification that the security is 9 registered under Section 12 of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (Corp. Code § 10 25111) or (ii) was issued by an investment company registered under the Investment 11

12
13 <sup>1</sup> California Corporations Code section 25019 sets forth an exhaustive but not all-inclusive 14 definition of what constitutes a "security." Under the Corporate Securities Law of 1968, a "security" is 15 defined to include membership in incorporated or unincorporated associations, whether or not evidenced 16 by a written instrument.

18 An investment scheme promising a fixed rate or return may be a "security" subject to the 19 federal securities laws. For example, in SEC v Edwards (2004) 540 U.S. 389, the United States Supreme 20 Court concluded the Howey test (see, Legal Conclusion 7) could be used to determine if a particular 21 scheme was an investment contract and subject to federal security laws, and there was no reason to 22 distinguish between promises of fixed returns and promises of variable returns.

23
24 <sup>2</sup> For example, Regulation D private offerings are exempt from registration if there has been full 25 compliance with SEC Rules 501-503. "Covered securities" listed or approved for listing on the New York 26 Stock Exchange, AMEX and the NASDAQ/National Market, and securities of the same issuer which are 27 equal in rank or senior to such listed securities are preempted from state regulation by Section 18 of the 28 Securities Act of 1933.

1 Company Act of 1940 (Corp. Code § 25112) or (iii) was issued by permit (Corp. Code § 2 25113).

3 6. The California Corporations Commissioner has several legal remedies to enforce 4 the Corporate Securities Law of 1968.

5 Proscribed conduct may be enjoined by a civil action under Corporations Code 6 section 25530 or by a Desist and Refrain Order issued directly by the California 7 Corporations Commissioner under Corporations Code section 25532. Civil penalties may 8 be sought under Corporations Code section 25535. Finally, criminal prosecution may be 9 initiated under Corporations Code section 25540.

10 7. This matter involved the appeal of a Desist and Refrain Order issued under 11 Corporations Code section 25532.

12
13 The Principals

14 8. Steve O. Cooper, Sr. (Cooper) resides in San Diego County. Cooper is the 15 founder and pastor of Nu-Way Christian Ministries, Inc. a non-denominational church with 16 congregations in San Diego County and Riverside County.

17 9. Michael E. Stevenson (Stevenson) resides in Riverside County. He is the 18 President of M.E. Stevenson, Inc., a Nevada Corporation, which he founded in May 2004.
19 According to Stevenson, M.E. Stevenson, Inc. is an education corporation devoted to 20 providing educational services in the fields of nutrition and financial services.

21 Stevenson's 25-year-old stepson, Yemi Ogunbase, is the Secretary of M.E. Stevenson, 22 Inc.

23 10. On December 8, 2004, Cooper founded SOCM Enterprises, Inc. (SOCM).<sup>3</sup> Cooper 24 is the President and CEO of SOCM. His wife, Peggy Cooper, is the Secretary and 25 Treasurer.

26
27 _____
28 <sup>3</sup> SOCM is an acronym for Steve O. Cooper Ministry.

1 The Formation of the Relationship Between the Coopers and Stevenson

2 11. The Coopers lost about $20,000 of a $70,000 stock market investment.
3 Stevenson came to learn the Coopers needed financial help. The Coopers were told 4 Stevenson was knowledgeable in the field of investments, particularly in trading options.
5 Cooper appeared to be familiar with the risks inherent in trading strategies. Stevenson 6 was able to recoup some of the loss. The Coopers were very happy.

8 The Investment Club

9 12. Cooper and Stevenson discussed forming an investment club so others could reap 10 the financial benefits of trading options. It was decided that SOCM would become the 11 entity through which club members would make the investments. Cooper would seek out 12 investors and Stevenson would make the trades.

13 The initial investment club funding came from what was left of Cooper's original 14 $70,000 investment and $24,000 that was invested by Stevenson. Additional capital was 15 to come from investment club members, persons who were supposed to be known 16 directly to Cooper, including Cooper's family members, friends and parishioners.

17 13. Before launching the investment club, SOCM and M.E. Stevenson, Inc. formed a 18 "syndicate" whose stated purpose was to grow the investment club through the 19 disciplined and conservative management of assets. The syndicate agreement required 20 delivery of a monthly statement to club members. Between SOCM and M.E. Stevenson, 21 Inc. the agreement was to split "profits" equally. Cooper, on behalf of SOCM, gave 22 Stevenson a limited power of attorney which authorized Stevenson to make all trades. It 23 was understood all of Stevenson's trading would be done online.

24 14. Prospective investment club members were provided with a customer agreement 25 and a club member policy agreement. The initial policy agreement stated in part:

26 "2. All trading is performed for a fee by the "Syndicate."

27 and 28

1 "7. Club members will receive earnings of 3% on $2000 to $5000. Club 2 members will earn 5 % on $5001 and over paid monthly. The maximum earned is 3 either 3% or 5% on money invested not both."

4 and

5 "15. Make checks payable to SOCM Enterprises."

7 15. According to Cooper, "profits" were funds over and above the guaranteed interest 8 that was paid to club members; an investor was entitled to earnings and a member of the 9 syndicate (namely, SOCM and M.E. Stevenson, Inc.) was entitled to profits; an investor 10 who was not a member of the syndicate was not entitled to profits.

11 Neither the customer agreement nor the policy agreement advised investment club 12 members of the manner by which the "syndicate" trading fee would be determined.
13 Neither the customer agreement nor the policy agreement advised investment club 14 members how their investments and the fixed returns thereon were being secured.<sup>4</sup>

15 16. The investment club ultimately came to include Cooper, Cooper's wife, Cooper's 16 parents, Cooper's older sister, Nu-Way Ministries (Cooper's church), Stevenson and 17 several parishioners personally known to Cooper.

18 Stevenson, in both his testimony at the administrative hearing and in his testimony 19 before the Securities Exchange Commission (Exh. 10, p.91), claimed the only members 20 of the investment club he knew about were SOCM and M.E. Stevenson, Inc. and he was 21 unaware SOCM had solicited investment club members. Stevenson's testimony was not 22 credible. Stevenson knew there were and would be other investors. This conclusion was 23 compelled by Stevenson warning Cooper about three matters: "One, we could not

25 <sup>4</sup> Stevenson made an initial investment of $24,000, which was intended to "cover any three 26 percent invested or five percent invested." The pledge of that investment to secure a return was not 27 reduced to writing and was not disclosed to club members. The $24,000 investment came from the 28 refinancing of Stevenson's house.

1 solicit...two, it had to be people we knew. And the third thing was to provide the 2 benefit...give what we say. Do what we say we're going to do." (Exh. 10, p. 92. See also, 3 Exh. 10, p. 99.)

4 Stevenson provided this warning to Cooper because he knew Cooper was actively 5 encouraging others to join the investment club. Stevenson could not avoid constructive 6 knowledge of Cooper's offers of membership in the investment club through the guise of 7 a warning.

8 17. Stevenson essentially testified M.E. Stevenson, Inc.'s sole client was SOCM, and 9 did not engage in trades for any other person or entity. In fact, Stevenson knew he was 10 trading for others who were members of the investment club members, other than 11 Cooper and his wife, had a pre-existing one of these investment club members, other 12 than Cooper and his wife, had a pre-existing personal or business relationship with 13 Stevenson. It was not established that any one of the investment club members had the 14 capacity to protect himself or herself within the investment club by reason of business or 15 financial experience. Stevenson testified trades were based on "market research," but in 16 fact the market research consisted merely of Stevenson listening to CNBC, the Weather 17 Channel, and other news available to the general public.

18 18. Neither Cooper, SOCM, Stevenson nor M.E. Stevenson, Inc. was registered in any 19 capacity with the National Association of Securities Dealers. Neither Cooper, SOCM, 20 Stevenson nor M.E. Stevenson, Inc. was registered with the Securities and Exchange 21 Commission. Neither Cooper, SOCM, Stevenson nor M.E. Stevenson, Inc. was 22 registered as an investment adviser with any state regulatory agency including the 23 California Department of Corporations.

24
25 The Bell Transaction

26 19. David Bell (Bell) resides in San Diego County. In June 2005, Bell heard Cooper 27 was offering individuals an opportunity to participate in an investment club. Bell had 28 heard of Nu-Way Ministries, but he did not know Cooper.

1           On June 20, 2005, Bell called Cooper and told him he was interested in joining the 2 investment club. Cooper told Bell a $2,000- $5,000 investment would return three 3 percent per month and an investment of $5,000 or more would return five percent a 4 month. Bell and Cooper met at a Coco's Restaurant to discuss the investment 5 opportunity further.

6           Cooper told Bell the investment was through SOCM Enterprises, that the 7 investment club was four months old, and it consisted of ten investors who had invested 8 approximately $500,000. Cooper then said he had only eight investors. Cooper told Bell 9 an investor's check was to be made out to SOCM Enterprises and funds would then be 10 sent directly from SOCM to M.E. Stevenson, Inc., which would invest the funds in stocks 11 and options. Cooper provided Bell with various documents concerning the investment 12 club. Bell did not know Stevenson.

13
14 Jurisdictional Matters

15 20.   On November 18, 2005, a Desist and Refrain Order was signed by Alan S.
16 Weinger, Acting Deputy Commissioner, on behalf of Wayne Strumpfer, Acting California 17 Corporations Commissioner. The Desist and Refrain Order, together with other required 18 jurisdictional documents, was directed to and served on Michael E. Stevenson and 19 others.

20           Roy R. Withers, an attorney, requested "an administrative hearing to challenge 21 facts that support the Desist and Refrain Order issued by your organization" on behalf of 22 Stevenson and M.E. Stevenson, Inc. Attorney Withers waived the timelines prescribed 23 by Corporations Code section 25532, subdivision (d). Attorney Withers later withdrew 24 from representation of Stevenson and M.E. Stevenson, Inc. in this proceeding.

25           On January 16, 2006, the Office of Administrative Hearings received a request for 26 a continuance, which was filed on behalf of all parties. The hearing was continued to 27 March 6 and 7, 2006. Stevenson, individually and doing business as M.E. Stevenson, 28 Inc., was served with a Notice of Hearing.

1 On March 2, 2006, a written stipulation signed by Steve O. Cooper, Sr. and Peggy 2 Sue Cooper was filed with the Office of Administrative Hearings. The Coopers were 3 represented by counsel. In that stipulation, the Coopers stipulated that each of them, 4 and SOCM Enterprises, Inc., had offered and sold memberships in an investment club in 5 violation of the California Corporate Securities Law of 1968 and each of them consented 6 to desist and refrain from such conduct in the future.

7 On March 6, 2006, the record in the administrative proceeding was opened.
8 Opening statements were given. Stevenson admitted he received Bell's declaration 9 under Government Code section 11514 and had not requested cross-examination.
10 Documentary evidence and sworn testimony was received, closing arguments were 11 given, the record was closed and the matter was submitted.

of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading.

19 General Authority

20 8. In defining what is a "security" subject to regulation, two major themes or modes of 21 analysis have been used by the courts when faced with a situation when the interest at 22 issue is not clearly described by a term in the statutory definition. These tests have been 23 applied, either separately or together, by both federal and California courts in making the 24 factual determination of whether a particular transaction is a security. A transaction is 25 considered a security if it satisfies either or both tests.

26 Under the first test, a security will be found when a person has invested value in a 27 common enterprise with an expectation of profit to be derived from the substantial efforts 28 of others. This is sometimes referred to as the Howey test because of the United States

1 Supreme Court's decision in SEC v. W.J. Howey (1946) 328 U.S. 293. The Howey
2 analysis has been used by many California courts to determine the existence of a 3 security. See, e.g., People v. Syde (1951) 37 Cal.2d 765; Tomei v. Fairline Feeding
4 Corp. (1977) 67 Cal. App.3d 394; and, Moreland v. Department of Corporations (1987)
5 196 Cal. App.3d 506.

6 The second mode of analysis is known as the "risk capital" approach, first used in 7 California in Silver Hills Country Club v. Sobieski (1961) 55 Cal.2d 811. That decision 8 permitted the finding of a security when capital is sought from third parties, which will be 9 risked in a start-up of a business venture for profit. There is no requirement that an 10 investor have an expectation to receive a monetary profit from the investment. The 11 passive position of the investor has been emphasized by the California Supreme Court 12 as an essential element of the risk capital test.

13 The Howey and the risk capital tests are not mutually exclusive. Sometimes their 14 elements are combined in an attempt to determine whether an investment involves a 15 security subject to registration in California. See, e.g., Moreland v. Department of 16 Corporations (1987) 194 Cal. App.3d 506; 239 Cal. Rptr. 558; see also People v.
17 Witzerman (1972) 29 Cal.App.3d 169 and People v. Schock (1984) 152 Cal.App.3d 379.

18 19 Relevant Case Law

20 9. People v. Miller (1987) 192 Cal. App.3d 1505, stands for the proposition that the 21 direct solicitation and sale by another of an unqualified, unexempt security does not 22 insulate an individual from liability for issuing his own unregistered securities.

23 10. In People v. Simon (1995) 9 Cal. 4th 193, 515-516, the California Supreme Court 24 stated that in an "enforcement action by the commissioner to enjoin future sales by 25 means of false or misleading statements is designed to protect the public...[f]or that 26 reason, it is irrelevant that the defendant knows that the statements or omissions are 27 false or misleading."

6 A. Corporations Code Section 25110

7 11. Michael E. Stevenson, M.E. Stevenson, Inc. and Yemi Ogunbase were involved in 8 the solicitation and sale of investment club memberships to various persons. Mr.
9 Stevenson, on behalf of M.E. Stevenson, Inc., offered to sell club memberships to 10 investors. Mr. Stevenson made representations to prospective investors that they would 11 receive investment returns from the trading of options. Yemi Ogunbase, as an officer of 12 M.E. Stevenson Inc., had the duty of drafting correspondence as well as providing 13 "market trend information and consulting" services to Stevenson and M.E. Stevenson, 14 Inc. Based on the evidence, there is good cause to affirm the D&R Order issued against 15 Michael E. Stevenson, M.E. Stevenson, Inc. and Yemi Ogunbase for failing to qualify the 16 investment club memberships as securities, in violation of Corporations Code Section 17 25110. The offering for sale of investment club memberships through SOCM constituted 18 the offering of a "security" in the form of an investment contract, a security which was not 19 exempt and was therefore subject to qualification.

21 B. Corporations Code Section 25230

22 12. Michael E. Stevenson and M.E. Stevenson, Inc. conducted business in California 23 as investment advisers without first having applied for and secured certificates 24 authorizing them to do so. Mr. Stevenson had a limited power of attorney to make trades 25 in SOCM's behalf and was paid to do this. Mr. Stevenson utilized "market trend" 26 information to not only make trades on behalf of the investment club between April of 27 2005 and September of 2005, but also to offer to sell club memberships to prospective 28 investors. Based on the evidence, there is good cause to affirm the D&R Order issued

1 against Michael E. Stevenson and M.R. Stevenson, Inc. for failing to obtain an 2 investment adviser certificate, in violation of Corporations Code Section 25230.

4 C. Corporations Code Section 25401

5 13. According to the evidence presented, Respondents agreed to form an investment 6 club. Michael E. Stevenson, and Yemi Ogunbase acted through their corporation, M.E.
7 Stevenson, Inc. as President/CEO and Treasurer/Secretary respectively. Investors were 8 solicited to join the investment club and were initially promised returns of three percent 9 per month for investments of $2,000 to $5,000 and five percent per month for 10 investments of amounts over $5,000. However, the investors were later told they would 11 be receiving only three percent per month regardless of the amount they had invested.
12 Neither the customer agreement nor the policy agreement advised investment club 13 members of how their investments and the fixed returns thereon were being secured.
14 Finally, investment club members were not advised as to the manner by which the 15 "syndicate" trading fee would be determined. Based on the evidence, there is good 16 cause to affirm the D&R Order issued against Michael E. Stevenson, M.E. Stevenson, 17 Inc. and Yemi Ogunbase for material omissions or misrepresentations in the offer and 18 sale of securities, in violation of Corporations Code Section 25401.
