

UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT

EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

FILED May 9, 2003

CLERK, US DISTRICT COURT EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA

DEPUTT GLENA

JUDGMENT IN A CIVIL CASE

WELLS FARGO BANK NA. et al.

ν.

CASE NUMBER: CIV S-03 157 JEB JFM

DEMETRIOUS A. BOUTRIS

XX - Decision by the Court. This action came to trial or hearing before the Court. The issues have been tried or heard and a decision has been rendered.

IT IS ORDERED AND ADJUDGED

THAT JUDGMENT IS HEREBY ENTERED IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE COURT'S ORDER OF 05/09/03.

Jack L. Wagner, Clerk of the Court

ENTERED: May 9, 2003

by

M. Plummer, Deputy Clerk

MAY-08-2003	18:33

SAN JOSE MERCURY NEWS

14089205917 P.02

FILED
мду - 9 Z003
CLERK, U.S. DISTRICT COURT EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA
IN THE UNITED STATES DISTRICT COURT
FOR THE EASTERN DISTRICT OF CALIFORNIA 8
WELLS FARGO BANK, N.A., and ) WELLS FARGO HOME MORTGAGE, INC., ) ) Plaintiffs, )
v. ) CIV. NO. S-03-0157 GEB JFM DEMETRIOS A. BOUTRIS, in his official capacity as Commissioner ) ORDER of the California Department of ) Corporations, ) Defendant. )
Pending are cross-motions for summary judgment involving all 18 claims in this action. This dispute concerns preemption under the 19 National Bank Act ("the Act") of California's power to regulate an 20 operating subsidiary of a national bank; whether a California official is liable for retaliation and 42 U.S.C. § 1983 claims for his exercise of state regulatory authority over that operating subsidiary; and, whether the Depository Institutions Deregulation Monetary Control Act of 1980 ("DIDMCA") preempts California's per diem interest statutes. <sup>1</sup>
Plaintiffs Wells Fargo Bank, N.A. ("Wells Fargo") and Wells California's per diem statutes prohibit mortgage lenders from charging any interest on residential mortgages for a period in excess of one day prior to recordation of the mortgage or deed of trust. See Cal. Fin. Code § 50204(o); Cal. Civ. Code § 2948.5.
1
0
(1)8

Fargo Home Mortgage, Inc. ("WFHMI") move for summary judgment and a 1 permanent injunction. Plaintiffs seek to permanently enjoin Defendant 2 3 Demetrios Boutris, in his official capacity as the Commissioner of the 4 California Department of Corporations ("Commissioner"), and his 5 agents, "from exercising visitorial powers over Plaintiffs, or from б otherwise preventing or interfering with WFHMI's operations in 7 California." (Pls.' Memo. of P. & A. in Support of Mot. for Summ. J. ("Pls.' Memo.") at 3.) The Office of the Comptroller of Currency 8 9 ("OCC") participated as amicus curiae in this case. The Commissioner opposes the motion and moves for summary judgment on all claims or in 10 11 the alternative for partial summary judgment. (Def.'s Memo. of P. & 12 A. in Support of Mot. for Summ. J. ("Def's Memo.") at 1.) The 13 Commissioner also argues that Wells Fargo lacks standing since he is not seeking to exercise his regulatory authority over Wells Fargo. 14 [ Wells Fargo rejoins it has standing because it makes residential 151 16 mortgage loans through its operating subsidiary WFHMI and thus has sufficient interest in this action. Wells Fargo has standing. 17

18

19

The motions were argued May 5, 2003.

BACKGROUND

20 Wells Fargo is a federally chartered national banking 21 association that is organized and exists under the National Bank Act, 22 12 U.S.C. § 21 et seq. (Pls.' Statement of Undisputed Facts ("Pls.' 23 SUF") ¶ 1.) WFHMI is a state-chartered corporation, which is a wholly 24 owned operating subsidiary of Wells Fargo. (Id. ¶ 2; Def.'s Statement 25 of Undisputed Facts ("Def.'s SUF") ¶ 3.) WFHMI makes more than $1 26 million in first-lien residential mortgage loans in California per 271 (Pls.' SUF MM 3,5.) Since 1996 until sometime in 2003 WFHMI year. 28 🛛 held licenses to engage in real estate lending activities under the

1 California Residential Mortgage Lending Act ("CRMLA") and the 2 California Finance Lenders Law ("CFLL").<sup>2</sup> (Def.'s SUF ¶ 5.)

3 The Commissioner is charged with enforcing the CRMLA, the 4 CFLL, and California Financial Code § 50204(0) (a per diem statute) against CRMLA licensees. (Id. ¶ 6.) The Commissioner asserted 5 6 regulatory, supervisory, examination and enforcement authority over 7 WFHMI since it was a licensee under both the CRMLA and CFLL. (Id.) In August 2001 and at subsequent times, the Commissioner instituted 8 9 ( regulatory examinations of WFHMI under the CFLL. (Id. ¶ 17; Pls.' 10 Response to Def.'s SUF ¶ 17.)

11 On or about December 4, 2002, the Commissioner demanded that WFHMI conduct an audit of its residential mortgage loans made in 12 13 California during 2001 and 2002. (Def.'s SUF ¶ 18.) The purpose of 14 the audit was to identify all loans where WFHMI charged per diem interest in violation of California Financial Code § 50204(o), so that 15 16 / WFHMI could make appropriate refunds, and identify instances of understating finance charges in violation of the federal Truth in 17 18 Lending Act. (Id.) WFHMI objected to the Commissioner's request in a 19 letter dated January 22, 2003, in which it asserted because it is an 20 operating subsidiary of a national bank it is subject to the OCC's exclusive regulatory authority. (Id. ¶ 20.) 21

Subsequently, on January 27, 2003, Plaintiffs filed this federal lawsuit against the Commissioner. The Commissioner instituted administrative proceedings to revoke WFHMI's licenses under CRMLA and CFLL on February 4, 2003. (Id. ¶ 23.) Plaintiffs unsuccessfully

26

At the May 5 hearing, Plaintiffs' counsel stated that subsequent to the March 10, 2003, preliminary injunction hearing in this action the Commissioner revoked WFHMI's CRMLA and CFLL licenses.

8

23

1 sought to enjoin those revocation proceedings.<sup>3</sup> Plaintiffs prevailed 2 on the portion of their preliminary injunction motion which sought to 3 enjoin the Commissioner from exercising visitorial powers over 4 Plaintiffs or from otherwise preventing WFHMI from conducting mortgage 5 lending business in California.

DISCUSSION<sup>4</sup>

I. Federal Preemption of the Commissioner's Exercise of Visitorial Powers over WFHMI

9 At the May 5 hearing the Commissioner argued that 10 notwithstanding his revocation of WFHMI's California licenses for its 11 mortgage lending business in California, he still is authorized to 12 exercise visitorial powers over WFHMI. Wells Fargo counters since the 13 OCC is exercising federal visitorial powers over its operating 14 subsidiary WFHMI, the Commissioner is preempted from exercising the same regulatory authority over WFHMI. (Pls.' Memo. at 3.) The OCC 15 16 agrees with Plaintiffs' position, stating that "in its capacity as 17 administrator of the national banking system . . . [and] pursuant to 12 U.S.C. 5 484 and federal regulations, the OCC has exclusive 18 19 'visitorial' power over national banks and their operating 20 subsidiaries except where federal law specifically provides 21 22

This portion of Plaintiffs' preliminary injunction motion was denied because Plaintiffs' argument that WFHMI was entitled to keep its California mortgage lending licenses even though WFHMI had not complied with its licensing requirements and asserted those licenses were unnecessary for it to conduct its mortgage lending business in California was found unpersuasive.

<sup>4</sup> Summary judgment standards are well-known and will not be repeated unless relevant to a point decided.

°¢

otherwise."5 (OCC Amicus Br. at 2.) The OCC has promulgated 12 1 C.F.R. § 7.4006, which concerns its exclusive visitorial powers over 2 national banks. Section 7.4006 provides, in pertinent part: 3 "[u]nless otherwise provided by Federal law or OCC regulation, State 4 laws apply to national bank operating subsidiaries to the same extent 5 that those laws apply to the parent national bank." Section 7.4006 6 7 considers an operating subsidiary of a national bank to be an "instrumentalit[y] of the federal government . . . subject to the 8 paramount authority of the United States." Bank of America v. City 9 and County of San Francisco, 309 F.3d 551, 561 (9th Cir. 2002). 10 The Commissioner argues nothing in the Act empowered the OCC 11 to issue § 7,4006. (Def.'s Opp'n to Pls.' Mot. for Summ. J. ("Def.'s 12 Opp'n") at 3.) The OCC counters Congress implicitly authorized it to 13 14 promulgate this regulation in the incidental powers section of 12 15 16 "[T]he term 'visitorial' powers as used in section 484 generally refers to the power of the OCC to 'visit' a national bank to 17 examine its activities and its observance of applicable laws, and encompasses any examination of a national bank's records relative to 18 the conduct of its banking business as well as any enforcement action that may be undertaken for violations of law." (OCC Amicus Br. at 2-19 3.) 20 The term "visitorial" power [in section 484] has deep historical roots. "At common law the right of visitation was exercised by the King as to civil corporations, . . . . " 21 One of the earliest interpretations of the OCC's "visitorial power" within the context of . . . the predecessor [statute] 22 to the current section 484, stated: 23 "Visitation, in law, is the act of a superior or 24 superintending officer, who visits a corporation to examine into its manner of conducting its 25 business, and enforce an observance of its laws and regulations. . . [T]he word ['visitation' has been defined] to mean 'inspection; 26 superintendence; direction; regulation." 27 irst Union Nat'l Bank v. Burke, 48 F. Supp. 2d 132, 144 (D. Conn. 28 1999) (internal citations omitted). 5

, ,

U.S.C. § 24 (Seventh), the visitorial powers section in 12 U.S.C. 1 § 484, and through acknowledgment in the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act 2 ("GLBA") that national banks can have operating subsidiaries. The OCC 3 contends § 7.4006 preempts the Commissioner's authority to exercise 4 5 visitorial powers over WFHMI. Whether OCC's promulgation of § 7.4006 is within the sphere 6 of authority delegated to it by Congress depends on Congressional 7 intent gleaned from the Act. "Preemption may be either express or 8 implied, and 'is compelled whether Congress' command is explicitly 9 stated in the statute's language or implicitly contained in its 10 structure and purpose.'" Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan Ass'n v. 11 de la Cuesta, 458 U.S. 141, 152-53 (1982) (citation omitted). 12 13 [When] explicit pre-emption language does not appear, or does not directly answer the question . . . courts must consider whether the federal 14 statute's "structure and purpose" or nonspecific statutory language, nonetheless reveal a clear, 15 but implicit, pre-emptive intent. . . . A federal statute, for example, may create a scheme of 16 federal regulation "so pervasive as to make 17 reasonable the inference that Congress left no room for the States to supplement it." 18 Alternatively, federal law may be in "irreconcilable conflict" with state law. . . 19 Compliance with both statutes, for example, may be a "physical impossibility," . . ., or, the state 20 law may "stan[d] as an obstacle to the accomplishment and execution of the full purposes 21 and objectives of Congress." 22 Barnett Bank of Marion County, N.A. v. Nelson, 517 U.S. 25, 31 (1996) 23 (citations omitted). "Federal regulations have no less pre-emptive 24 effect than federal statutes." Fidelity Federal Savings and Loan 25 Ass'n, 458 U.S. at 153-54. 26 Α. National Bank Act 27 National banks are created and governed by the National Bank 2 B I Act. The Act was enacted to "facilitate . . , 'a national banking system.'" Marguette Nat'l Bank of Minneapolis v. First of Omaha Serv. 1 Corp., 439 U.S. 299, 314-15 (1978) (quoting Cong. Globe, 38th Cong., 2 1st Sess., 1451 (1864)), and "to protect national banks against 3 intrusive regulation by the States." Bank of America, 309 F.3d at 4 561. "The National Bank Act (12 U.S.C. 5 21 et seq.) constitutes by 5 itself a complete system for the establishment and government of 6 national banks." Deitrick v. Greanev, 309 U.S. 190, 194 7 (1940) (quotations and citations omitted). The Act provides national 8 9 banks shall have power [t]o exercise . . . all such incidental powers as 10 shall be necessary to carry on the business of banking; by discounting and negotiating promissory notes, drafts, bills of exchange, and other 11 evidences of debt; by receiving deposits; by 12 buying and selling exchange, coin, and bullion; by loaning money on personal security; and by 13 obtaining, issuing, and circulating notes. . . . 14 12 U.S.C. § 24 (Seventh). The OCC is the administrator charged with 15 supervision of the Act and bears "primary responsibility for 16 surveillance of 'the business of banking' authorized by § 24 17 (Seventh)." NationsBank of North Carolina, N.A. v. Variable Annuity 16 Life Ins. Co., 513 U.S. 251, 256 (1995); see 12 U.S.C. $$ 1, 26-27. 19 481. The Act prescribes: "No national bank shall be subject to any 20 visitorial powers except as authorized by Federal law, vested in the 21 22 The Act authorizes the CCC to "appoint examiners who shall examine every national bank as often as the Comptroller of the 23 Currency shall deem necessary. The examiner making the examination of 24 any national bank shall have power to make a thorough examination of all the affairs of the bank and in doing so he shall have power to administer oaths and to examine any of the officers and agents thereof under oath and shall make a full and detailed report of the condition of said bank to the Comptroller of the Currency. . . " 12 U.S.C. S 481. "The provisions of the Act requiring periodic examinations and reports and the powers of the Comptroller are designed to insure 25 26

28

3, h (

1.12

7

prompt discovery of violations of the Act and in that event prompt remedial action by the Comptroller." Deitrick, 309 U.S. at 195.

ŝ

1 courts of justice or such as shall be, or have been exercised or 2 directed by Congress. . . . 12 U.S.C. § 484(a).

The Commissioner concedes the OCC's exclusive visitorial 3 power over national banks, but insists that regulatory authority does 4 not extend to WFHMI. The Commissioner asserts nothing in the Act 5 authorizes the OCC to prescribe it has exclusive visitorial authority 6 over operating subsidiaries of national banks. (Def.'s Opp'n at 3.) 7 He argues since an operating subsidiary is not a national bank, it 8 should not be granted all the rights and privileges of a national 9 bank. (Def.'s Memo. at 7.) Plaintiffs counter "that operating 10 subsidiaries conduct only activities that the national bank is 11 authorized to conduct, and therefore function as separately 12 13 incorporated divisions or departments of the national bank. . . . " 14 (Pls.' Memo. at 7.) The OCC agrees with Plaintiffs stating, "When established in accordance with the procedures mandated by the OCC 15 Operating Subsidiary Rule and approved by the OCC, the operating 16 17 subsidiary is a federally-authorized means by which a national bank 18 may conduct federally-authorized activities." (OCC Amicus Br. at 13.)

B. Operating Subsidiaries

20 The OCC asserts that "[p]ursuant to [national banks'] 21 authority under 12 U.S.C. § 24 (Seventh) to exercise 'all such 22 incidental powers as shall be necessary to carry on the business of 23 banking,' national banks have long used separately incorporated 24 entities to engage in activities that the bank itself is authorized to 25 conduct." (Id. at 11-12.) "Incidental powers [in § 24 (Seventh)] include activities that are 'convenient or useful in connection with -26 276 the performance of one of the bank's established activities pursuant 28 to its express powers under the National Bank Act." Bank of America,

2.5

1

1 309 F.3d at 562 (citations omitted). The United States Supreme Court 2 held that the "business of banking' is not limited to the enumerated 3 powers in § 24 Seventh and that the Comptroller therefore has 4 discretion to authorize activities beyond those specifically 5 enumerated. The exercise of the Comptroller's discretion, however, 6 must be kept within reasonable bounds." NationsBank of North 7 Catolina, N.A., 513 U.S. at 258 n.2.

The OCC has promulgated an operating subsidiary rule in 12 В C.F.R. § 5.34, which prescribes: "[a] national bank may conduct in an 9 operating subsidiary activities that are permissible for a national 10 bank to engage in directly either as part of, or incidental to, the 11 business of banking, as determined by the OCC, or otherwise under 12 other statutory authority. . . . " Section 5.34(e)(3) provides: "[a]n 13 operating subsidiary conducts activities authorized under this section 14 pursuant to the same authorization, terms and conditions that apply to 15 the conduct of such activities by its parent national bank." 16

At the May 5 hearing, the Commissioner virtually conceded the OCC's construction of 12 U.S.C. § 24 (Seventh) as authorizing national banks to conduct the business of banking through operating subsidiaries is entitled to deference by stating this construction is "probably" reasonable in light of NationsBank of North Carolina. N.A., &lt;sup>7</sup> Before a national bank can be authorized to conduct permissible banking activities through an operating subsidiary, the bank must comply with the OCC's licensing requirements. Under 12 C.F.R. § 5.34(b), "A national bank must file a notice or application as prescribed in this section to acquire or establish an operating subsidiary, or to commence a new activity in an existing operating subsidiary." "The OCC reviews a national bank's application to determine whether the proposed activities are legally permissible and to ensure that the proposal is consistent with safe and sound banking practices and OCC policy and does not endanger the safety or soundness of the parent national bank." Id. § 5.34(e)(5)(iii).

- 2

....

1 513 U.S. at 258 n.2. (Reporter's Transcript ("RT") at 30.) However. 2 the Commissioner insisted that this statute does not authorize the OCC 3 to exercise exclusive visitorial powers over operating subsidiary 4 entities. The Commissioner's equivocal position on whether the OCC 5 can authorize national banks to conduct banking business through 6 operating subsidiaries requires the issue to be decided.

Both parties cite to the GLBA's definition of "financial 7 subsidiary" as support for their respective positions on whether the Ð Act empowers a national bank to conduct banking business through an 9 operating subsidiary. Plaintiffs and the OCC argue Congress 10 acknowledged national banks' authority to conduct banking business in 11 this manner in the GLBA's definition of "financial subsidiary." The 12 Commissioner counters that definition evinces Congress never intended 13 national banks to conduct business through operating subsidiaries. 14

15 The Commissioner's reliance on this definition is misplaced. 16 The "financial subsidiary" definition recognizes that "operating subsidiaries" could exist by stating a "`financial subsidiary' . . . 17 is . . . other than a subsidiary that . . . engages solely in 18 19 activities that national banks are permitted to engage in directly and 20 are conducted subject to the same terms and conditions that govern the 21 conduct of such activities by national banks." 12 U.S.C. 5 24a(g)(3). 22 Not only does this language reference operating subsidiaries, it 23 indicates the OCC exercises visitorial authority over them. A Senate 24 Report explaining the scope and purpose of the GLBA explicitly 25 addresses the use of operating subsidiaries by national banks:

- 26
- 27 28

For at least 30 years, national banks have been authorized to invest in operating subsidiaries that are engaged only in activities that national banks may engage in directly. For example, national banks are authorized directly to make mortgage loans and engage in related mortgage 1 banking activities. Many banks choose to conduct these activities through subsidiary corporations. 2 Nothing in this legislation is intended to affect the authority of national banks to engage in bank 3 permissible activities through subsidiary corporations, or to invest in joint ventures to engage in bank permissible activities with other 4 banks or nonbank companies. 5 S. Rep. No. 106-44, at B (1999).<sup>e</sup> 6 Moreover, court decisions determining whether a particular 7 activity is permissible for a national bank have treated the 8 activities of an operating subsidiary as being equivalent to the 9 10 The OCC also recognized several years ago, in 1966, that 11 national banks are empowered to conduct authorized banking business through subsidiaries by its announcement in the Federal Register: 12 The Comptroller of the Currency has confirmed his 13 position that a national bank may acquire and hold the controlling stock interest in a subsidiary 14 operations corporation. . . A subsidiary 15 operations corporation is a corporation the functions or activities of which are limited to one or several of the functions or activities that 16 a national bank is authorized to carry on. 17 [T]he authority of a national bank to purchase or otherwise acquire and hold stock of a subsidiary 18 operations corporation may properly be found among 'such incidental powers' of the bank 'as shall be 19 necessary to carry on the business of banking, ' within the meaning of 12 U.S.C. 24 (7), or as an 20 incident to another Federal banking statute which 21 empowers a national bank to engage in a particular The visitorial powers function or activity. . . 22 vested in this Office are adequate to ascertain compliance by bank subsidiaries with the 23 limitations and restrictions applicable to them and their parent national banks. 24 Acquisition of Controlling Stock Interest in Subsidiary Operations Corporation, 31 Fed. Reg. 11,459 at 11,459-60 (Aug. 31, 1966). This 25 This interpretative pronouncement reflected OCC's then-held view on existing law. Gibson Wine Co. v. Snyder, 94 F.2d 329, 331 (D.C. Cir. 1952 ("Administrative officials frequently announce their views as to 26 27 the meaning of statutes or regulations."). 28 11 activities of the national bank. See NationsBank of North Carolina. 1 N.A., 513 U.S. at 254 (brokerage subsidiary acting as an agent in the 2 sale of annuities); Marquette Nat'l Bank of Minneapolis, 439 U.S. 299 31 (credit card subsidiary); American Ins. Ass'n v. Clarke, 865 F.2d 278 4 (D.C. Cir. 1988) (subsidiary offering municipal bond insurance); M & 5 M Leasing Corp. v. Seattle First Nat'l Bank, 563 F.2d 1377 (9th Cir. 6 1977) (motor vehicle leasing by subsidiary). It is pellucid that 7 "'the powers of national banks must be construed so as to permit the 8 use of new ways of conducting the very old business of banking."" 9 Bank of America, 309 F.3d at 563 (citation omitted). It is also clear 10 "that the OCC has been delegated the authority to determine, with 11 . . . considerable discretion[], " whether national banks may conduct 12 banking business through operating subsidiaries. Wells Fargo Bank of 13 Texas NA v. James, 321 F.3d 408, 493 (5th Cir. 2003). 14

, ł

. .

1 . 1

The OCC's regulation authorizing national banks to conduct 15 permissible banking business activities through operating subsidiaries 16 is within its discretionary authority delegated to it by Congress and 17 is a reasonable interpretation of the Act. Since the OCC's 19 "determination as to what activities are authorized under the National 19 Bank Act (is to) be sustained if reasonable," First Nat'l Bank of 20 Eastern Arkansas v. Tavlor, 907 F.2d 775, 777-78 (8th Cir. 1990), 21 Plaintiffs prevail on their position that WFHMI is an operating 22 23 subsidiary of a national bank.

- 24
- 25

C. OCC's Exclusive Visitorial Powers Over Operating Subsidiaries

Notwithstanding Wells Fargo's right to conduct business through an operating subsidiary, the Commissioner argues he has visitorial powers over WFHMI by virtue of state law, which the OCC

٠â

2.

γ¦

1

seeks to extinguish by impermissibly asserting exclusive visitorial 1 The OCC asserts "[b]ecause federal law prohibits the 2 powers. [Commissioner] from exercising visitorial powers over a national bank 3 engaged in real estate lending pursuant to federal law, the 4 [Commissioner] may not exercise visitorial power over the national 5 bank conducting that activity through an operating subsidiary licensed. 6 by the OCC, absent federal law dictating a contrary result." (OCC 7 Amicus Br. at 14.} ₿

The issue is whether the OCC was empowered under the Act to 9 enact 12 C.F.R. § 7.4006, which prescribes: "State laws apply to . 10 0 national bank operating subsidiaries to the same extent that those 11 laws apply to the parent national bank."10 Section 7.4006 is to be 12 upheld if it is "`a reasonable interpretation of § 24 (Seventh),'" 13 Bank of America, 309 F.3d at 562 (citation omitted). Since the OCC is 14 the regulator of national banks and administrator of the Act, its 15 position on its authority to enact $ 7.4006 is entitled to "'great 16 weight.'" Id. It is plain that the Act delegated the OCC the 17 authority to promulgate § 7.4006 and §7.4006 reflects a reasonable 18 construction of the Act. 19 21 Under 12 U.S.C. § 371, national banks "may make, arrange, purchase or sell loans or extensions of credit secured by liens on 22 interests in real estate. . . . " 23 Section 7.4006, considered in conjunction with 12 C.F.R. 10 24 $ 5.34(e)(3) and 12 U.S.C. $ 484, evinces that the OCC is exercising exclusive visitorial powers over operating subsidiaries. Section 25 "If, upon examination, the OCC determines that 5.34(e)(3) provides: the operating subsidiary is operating in violation of law, regulation, 26 or written condition, or in an unsafe or unsound manner or otherwise threatens the safety or soundness of the bank, the OCC will direct the bank or operating subsidiary to take appropriate remedial action, which may include requiring the bank to divest or liquidate the 27 29 operating subsidiary, or discontinue specified activities.

· • •

**, •

4

1,

• \

2

1

Because WFHMI "is treated as a department or division of its 1 parent [national bank] for regulatory purposes," the Commissioner 2 lacks visitorial power over WFHMI just as it lacks visitorial power 3 over WFHMI's national bank parent. WFS Financial, Inc. v. Dean, 79 4 F. Supp. 2d 1024, 1026 (W.D. Wis. 1999); see 12 U.S.C. § 484 5 (prescribing that "[n]o national bank shall be subject to any 6 visitorial powers except as authorized by Federal law . . . "); see 7 also Nat'l State Bank, Elizabeth, N.J. v. Long, 630 F.2d 981, 988 (3d 8 Cir. 1980) (indicating that where allowing a state agency to exercise 9 visitorial powers over an instrumentality of a national bank would 10 "result in unnecessary and wasteful duplication of effort on the part 11 of the bank and the state agency," it is "reasonable and practical" 12 for visitorial powers to be exercised exclusively by a federal 13 agency). "State attempts to control the conduct of national banks are 14 void if they conflict with federal law, frustrate the purposes of the 15 National Bank Act, or impair the efficiency of national banks to 16 discharge their duties." Bank of America, 309 F.3d at 561. 17 Therefore, the Commissioner has no visitorial powers over WFHMI. 18 Preemption Violates California's Sovereignty Under the D. 19 Tenth Amendment 20 The Commissioner further argues that "[b]y promulgating 21 regulations seeking to regulate operating subsidiaries of national 22 banks to the exclusion of states, the OCC is interfering with 23

California's constitutional sovereignty under the Tenth Amendment and taking away the state's power to regulate and enforce its laws against state-chartered corporations such as WFHMI." (Def.'s Memo. at 10.) When WFHMI became an OCC authorized operating subsidiary of a national bank it ceased being subject to the visitorial power of the Commissioner and became regulated by the OCC. This change in 1 regulatory authority from the Commissioner to the OCC has not been 2 shown to infringe California's rights under the Tenth Amendment. 3 The Tenth Amendment provides, "The powers not delegated to 4 the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the 5 States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the People." 6 It has long been recognized that the Constitution authorizes Congress 7 to establish national banks. See M'Culloch v. State, 17 U.S. 316. 8 424-25 (1819). The National Bank Act's effect of "carv[ing] out from 9 state control supervisory authority" over an OCC-authorized operating 1,0 subsidiary of a national bank does not violate California's Tenth 11 Amendment rights. First Union Nat'l Bank y., Burke, 48 F. Supp. 2d 12 13 132, 148 (D. Conn. 1999). Under the national banking regulatory scheme, 14 Congress does not direct the state executive to affirmatively function in any particular way, nor does the OCC's exercise of exclusive visitorial 15 powers over national banks preclude the state 16 statutory enactments from being applied to national banks, provided they are not in conflict 17 with and thus preempted by federal banking laws. 18 By creating such a scheme, Congress has not seized the machinery of state government to achieve 19 federal purposes. The relegation of regulatory and supervisory authority over federal 20 instrumentalities to a single federal regulator does not interfere with the Commissioner's 21 enforcement of state law against state banks, does not interfere with the state's enactment of non-22 preempted state banking laws applicable to national banks, does not preclude the Commissioner from seeking OCC enforcement of state laws, and 23 expressly leaves available judicial remedies to compel national bank compliance with state law. 24 25 Id. at 148-49; see Clark v. U.S., 184 F.2d 952, 954 (10th Cir. 1950) 26 ("Congress has the power to enact legislation for the protection, 27 preservation and regulation of [national banks]" (citing Westfall v. 28 United States, 274 U.S. 256 (1927); Farmers' and Mechanics' Nat'l Bank

v. Dearing, 91 U.S. 29 (1875); M'Culloch, 17 U.S. 316; Doherty v. 1 United States, 94 F.2d 495, 497 (8th Cir. 1938); Weir v. United 2 States, 92 F.2d 634, 636 (7th Cir. 1937))). Therefore, the OCC's 3 regulation prescribing that it has exclusive visitorial powers over 4 operating subsidiaries of national banks does not violate California's 5 constitutional sovereignty under the Tenth Amendment. 6 For the stated reasons, Plaintiffs' motion for summary 7 judgment is granted on their claim that the Act preempts the 8 Commissioner from exercising visitorial powers over WFHMI, a wholly-9 owned operating subsidiary of Wells Fargo, licensed by the OCC to 10 engage in real estate lending activities in California." 11 Preemption of California's Per Diem Statutes by Depository 12 II. Institutions Deregulation and Monetary Control Act of 1980 13 Plaintiffs also contend California's per diem statutes 14 cannot be enforced against WFHMI because DIDMCA expressly preempts 15 16 them. Under DIDMCA, The provisions of the constitution or the laws of 17 any State expressly limiting the rate or amount of interest, discount points, finance charges, or 18 other charges which may be charged, taken, 19 received, or reserved shall not apply to any loan, mortgage, credit sale, or advance which is - -20 (A) secured by a first lien on residential real 21 property. . . 22 (B) made after March 31, 1980; and 23 (C) [a federally related mortgage loan.] 12 U.S.C. $ 1735f-7a(a). A "federally related mortgage" "(1) is 24 25 26 11 The Commissioner also argues that 12 C.F.R. § 7.4006 cannot be applied retroactively but that argument is mooted by the preemptive ruling on California's per diem statutes, which are the only statutes "at issue with respect to the regulatory dispute over which entity is 27 28 authorized to exercise visitorial powers over WFHMI. 16

t I

secured by residential real property designed principally for the 1 || occupancy of from one to four families; and (2). . . (D) is made in 2 [ whole or in part by any 'creditor', as defined in section 1602(f) of 31 Title 15, who makes or invests in residential real estate loans 4 aggregating more than $1,000,000 per year." 12 U.S.C. § 1725f-5(b). 5 A "creditor" is: 6 a person who both (1) regularly extends, whether 7 in connection with loans, sales of property or services, or otherwise, consumer credit which is 9 payable by agreement in more than four installments or for which the payment of a finance 9 charge is or may be required, and (2) is the 10 person to whom the debt arising from the consumer credit transaction is initially payable on the face of the evidence of indebtedness or, if there 11 is no such evidence of indebtedness, by agreement. 12 WFHMI is a creditor within the meaning of the 13 15 U.S.C. § 1602(f). 14 (Pls.' SUF ¶ 4.) States were able to override DIDMCA's statute. express preemption by explicitly opting out of its terms prior to 15 Id. § 1735f-7a(b)(2). California did not opt out of April 1, 1983. 16 17 the DIDMCA's express preemption within the statutorily prescribed time 18 period. (Pls.' SUF 7 6.) 19 California's per diem statutes prohibit interest from being 20 charged on loaned mortgage funds for a period in excess of one day 21 prior to recording of the mortgage. Cal. Civ. Code § 2948.5; Cal. Fin. Code § 50204(0). California Civil Code § 2948.5 provides, "[a] 22 23 borrower shall not be required to pay interest on a principal 24 obligation under a promissory note secured by a mortgage or deed of 25 trust on real property improved with between one to four residential 26 dwelling units for a period in excess of one day prior to recording of 27 the mortgage or deed of trust if the loan proceeds are paid into 2B escrow. . . . " In addition, under the CRMLA, a licensee may not

1 ...

1 "{r}equire a borrower to pay interest on the mortgage loan for a
2 period in excess of one day prior to recording of the mortgage or deed 3 of trust," except under certain circumstances that are not relevant to 4 the present action. Cal. Fin. Code $ 50204(0).

Plaintiffs argue California's per diem statutes expressly 5 6 limit the amount of interest that a lender may collect on federally 7 related mortgage loans and are therefore preempted by the DIDMCA. 8 (Pls.' Memo. at 18-19.) Plaintiffs support their position by relying 9 primarily on Shelton v. Mutual Savings and Loan Ass'n, 738 F. Supp. 1050 (E.D. Mich. 1990). In Shelton, the plaintiffs argued defendant 10 Bank "violated the Michigan usury statute, M.C.L. sections 430.31c(2) 11 12 and (9), by charging interest before the loan proceeds were 13 disbursed." Id. at 1053. The court explained, "the broadest possible 14 interpretation of the exemption from state usury laws is consistent with the legislative purpose [of DIDMCA]," and therefore held 15 16 Michigan's usury law was preempted by DIDMCA. Id. at 1057-58.

17 The Commissioner argues that the per diem statutes are 18 unrelated to the California Usury Law<sup>12</sup> and "do nothing more than 19 compel a close relationship between the date interest charges begin 20 and the date of recordation of the deed of trust." (Def.'s Memo. at 26.) Further, the Commissioner contends the purpose behind the per 22 diem statutes' limitation on interest charges "is to protect the 23 consumer from paying interest on money that has not bought him the

- 24
- 25
- 26 27
- <sup>12</sup> California's usury law is found in California Constitution, 28 Article XV, § 1.
  - 18

Ċ

1 benefit of his bargain."<sup>13</sup> (Id_) Plaintiffs counter that DIDMCA is 2 not limited to preempting only state usury statutes, arguing "if 3 Congress had intended DIDMCA's preemption laws to apply only to a 4 subset of state laws limiting the rate or amount of interest, Congress 5 would have said so." (Pls.' Opp'n to Def.'s Mot. for Summ. J. ("Pls.' 6 Opp'n") at 17.)

7 DIDMCA preempts "[t]he provisions of the constitution or the 8 laws of any State expressly limiting the rate or amount of interest, 9 discount points, finance charges, or other charges which may be 10 charged, taken, received, or reserved. . . " on particular types of 11 loans. 12 U.S.C. § 1735f-7a(a). The language of the statute does not 12 expressly limit the preemptive scope of DIDMCA to state usury laws.

14 13 During the May 5 hearing, light was shed on the usurious nature of California's per diem interest statutes and the benefit of the bargain the statutes are designed to help borrowers realize. At 15 the hearing the Commissioner's counsel was asked, "What's a usury law?" In response he said, "I think [it] is a cap or ceiling on the actual amount -- the actual rate of interest charged . . . ." (RT at 16 || (RT at During the exchange with the Commissioner's counsel, he argued 17 9.) that "the benefit of the bargain is buying the house, i.e., getting 18 clear title to the house, getting to live in the house, the keys to the house, really the issue is that that benefit only accrues or 19 occurs when recordation occurs. It is - I would doubt very much that most banks would let me move into a house before they've recorded 20 their mortgage on that house. (RT at 11.)

Further, the Commissioner's counsel argued that California's per diem statute seeks to encourage mortgage lenders to "keep the process moving fast . . . by limiting the interest to one day." (RT at 15-16.) When counsel was questioned about admitting that the statute limits the amount of interest, he said he mis-spoke and instead intended to use the word "controls," "because . . . this statute basically sets when the lender can begin to compute the interest on the loan." (RT at 16.)

The Commissioner's shift in analytic focus from the per diem statutes limiting interest to one day to the word "controls" cannot be squared with his position on the real goal of the statutes, which is to prevent the lender from collecting interest on loaned mortgage funds in excess of one day prior to recordation.

.

ų,

1

1 But the relevant legislative history makes clear that Congress just 2 intended to create a limited preemption of state usury laws. See 3 Brown v. Investors Mortgage Co., 121 F.3d 472, 476 (9th Cir. 4 1997) ("Congress made specific findings that modification of state 5 usury laws was necessary for a stable national financial system."). 6 The Senate Report that accompanied the bill containing what became 12 7 U.S.C. § 1735f-7a provides: 9 In order to ease the severity of the mortgage credit crunches of recent years and to provide 9 financial institutions, particularly those with large mortgage portfolios, with the ability to 10 offer higher interest rates on savings deposits, H.R. 4986 as reported by the Committee would preempt any state constitutional or statutory 11 provision setting a limit on mortgage interest 12 rates. . . . 13 H.R. 4986 as amended provides for a limited preemption of state usury laws. It provides that 14 the state constitutional or statutory restrictions on the amount of interest, discount points or 15 other charges on any loan, mortgage or advance secured by real estate which is described in section 527(B) of the National Housing Act are 16 exempt from usury ceilings. . . . 17 The Committee believes that this limited 16 modification in state usury laws will enhance the stability and viability of our nation's financial 19 system and is needed to facilitate a national housing policy and the functioning of a national 20 secondary market in mortgage lending. . 21 In exempting mortgage loans from state usury limitations, the Committee intends to exempt only 22 those limitations that are included in the annual percentage rate. The Committee does not intend to exempt limitations on prepayment charges, attorney 23 fees, late charges or similar limitations designed 24 to protect borrowers. S. Rep. No. 96-368, at 18-19 (1979), reprinted in 1980 U.S.C.C.A.N. 25 26 236, 254-55. 27 Plaintiffs contend the Commissioner's argument that the per diem statutes are not usury laws "is essentially a tautology, since 28 usury laws are defined as 'collectively, the laws of a jurisdiction 1 regulating the charging of interest.'" (Pls.' Opp'n at 17 (quoting 2 🛛 Black's Law Dictionary 1545 (6th ed. 1990)).) "Usury is the 31 receiving, securing, or taking of a greater sum or value for the loan 4 or forbearance of money, goods, or things in action than is allowed by 5 6 law, the exaction of a greater sum for the use of money than the 7 highest rate of interest allowed by law." 45 Laura Dietz & Anne M. Payne, American Jurisprudence, Interest and Usury § 2 (2d ed. 2002); 8 I see also Bernie's Custom Coach v. Small Business Admin., 987 F.2d 9 1195, 1197 (5th Cir. 1990) ("A usurious contract consists of a loan of 10 11 money 'which requires a greater interest than allowed by law.'"). In 12 California, "usury" has been defined as "taking more than the law 13 allows upon a loan or for forbearance of a debt." Hall v. Beneficial Finance Co., 118 Cal. App. 3d 652, 654 (1981)(citation omitted). 14 ₿y 15 | prohibiting lenders from commencing to charge interest on loaned 16 mortgage funds until one day prior to recordation, California's per 17 diem statutes constitute usury laws.

. :

18 Nevertheless, the Commissioner argues California's per diem 19 🖁 statutes do not fall within the preemptive scope of DIDMCA because 20 they are designed to protect consumers and do not expressly limit interest rates or amounts. (Def.'s Memo. at 28.) The Commissioner 21 22 🛛 compares California's per diem statutes with the simple interest statute ("SIS") that was held not preempted by DIDMCA in Grunbeck v. 23 Dime Savings Bank of New York, 74 F.3d 331 (1st Cir. 1996). 24 The SIS requires that any interest rate or amount agreed to by the parties be 25 computed on a "simple interest" basis. Grunbeck, 74 F.3d at 337. 26 The 27 court explained,

28

2

3

4

5

6

7

1

[t]he SIS . . . does not "serve to . . . restrain" either the rate or the amount of simple interest which may be obtained, since the lender remains free to compensate by increasing the simple interest rate. Thus, the SIS does not "expressly" limit "the rate or amount of interest." Nor, in the alternative, does the SIS--as distinguished from market forces-- "limit" the rate or amount of interest if "limit" means a "final, utmost or furthest boundary" on the rate or amount of interest, since the SIS imposes no ceiling whatsoever on either the rate or amount of simple interest that may be exacted.

0 Id. at 339 n. 6.

9 Plaintiffs retort Grunbeck is factually distinguishable. 10 Unlike the SIS, California's per diem interest restriction does not 11 leave "entirely to the parties the rate and amount of . . . interest 12 to be exacted" because once the lender and borrower's loan transaction 13 is finalized, the lender has no way of collecting interest on loaned 14 mortgage funds that would have been collected absent delays in 15 recording the deed of trust. Grunbeck, 74 F.3d at 337. WFHMI is 16 unable to bargain for a higher interest rate to compensate it for the 17 possible delay in recordation of the mortgage or deed of trust because 18 such delay is typically caused by the actions of others: the 19 settlement agents, the escrow company, and the county clerk who 20 records the mortgage. Thus the statute in Grunbeck simply limited the 21 manner in which the lender expressed its interest rate without 22 limiting the total amount of interest charged over the course of the 23 loan. In contrast, California's per diem statutes prevent the lender 24 from charging a specific pre-determined amount of interest over the 25 course of the loan by tying the total amount of interest charged to events outside the lender's control which will not occur until after 26[ the loan is made. 27

28

1 Plaintiffs further contend the per diem interest statutes do 2 not protect consumers by ensuring they receive the benefit of their bargain because "the purpose of recording the deed of trust is to 3 4 protect the lender, not the borrower." (Pls.' Opp'n at 15.) 5 Therefore, "a delay in recording the deed of trust does not deprive 6 the borrower of the 'benefit of his bargain' with the lender." (Id.) 7 The Commissioner's argument that the per diem statutes are 6 | designed to protect consumers from unseen costs is unpersuasive." 9 Once the lender distributes funds to the borrower, the borrower has 10 received the "benefit of the bargain." The act of recordation of the mortgage or deed of trust simply provides "constructive notice" of the 11 contents of the recorded documents to third parties. See Domarad v. 12 Fisher & Burke, Inc., 270 Cal. App. 2d 543, 554 (1969)("The purpose of 13 the recording statutes is to give notice to prospective purchasers or 14 mortgagees of land of all existing and outstanding estates, titles or 15 interest, whether valid or invalid, that may affect their rights as 16 bona fide purchasers."). 17

18 Yet DIDMCA preempts only those state laws "expressly limiting the rate or amount of interest . . ." charged on particular 19 residential mortgage loans. 12 U.S.C. § 1735f-7a(a). "When engaged 20 in the task of statutory interpretation, 'courts . . . should . . . 21 attempt to give meaning to each word and phrase.'" Grunbeck, 74 F.3d 22 at 338 (citation omitted). Thus, the question is whether the per diem 23 24 statutes expressly place a ceiling on interest rates or amounts. California's per diem statutes limit the time during which interest 25

- 26
- 27

The Commissioner has also argued that this limitation is permitted under the DIDMCA's exception for "other charges," but it is 24 pellucid that the per diem statutes cover interest, not other charges. 28

. 1

can be charged by prohibiting a lender from charging interest on 1 loaned mortgage funds for a period in excess of one day prior to 2 recordation of the mortgage. Cal. Civ. Code § 2948.5; Cal. Fin. Code 3 [ $ 50204(0). By restricting the time period in which a lender may 4 5 collect interest on loaned mortgage funds, the language of the per-6 diem statutes "expressly limit[s] the rate or amount of interest. . . 7 which may be charged . . . . " Therefore, DIDMCA preempts California's 6 per diem statutes. Plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment on this 9 claim is granted.

10 III. Retaliation Claim

11 The Commissioner argues his entitlement to summary judgment 12 on Plaintiffs' retaliation claim, contending the record shows he did not institute administrative revocation proceedings to revoke WFHMI's 13 14 CRMLA and CFLL licenses in retaliation for Plaintiffs' filing this federal lawsuit against his regulatory authority over WFHMI. Under 15 || Mt. Healthy City Sch. Dist. Bd. of Educ. v. Doyle, 429 U.S. 274, 286 16 (1977), even if Plaintiffs show that the Commissioner's licensing 17 revocation decision was motivated by Plaintiffs' filing this federal 18 lawsuit, the Commissioner could still prevail on his motion if he 19 | demonstrates the absence of a genuine issue of material fact as to 201 whether he would have reached the same decision even in the absence of 21 || Plaintiffs' filing this lawsuit. 22

23

A. Undisputed Facts Applicable to Retaliation Claim

The uncontroverted evidence shows since 1996 until some time in 2003, WFHMI held CRMLA and CFLL licenses, which WFHMI used to engage in real estate lending activities in California. These licenses required WFHMI to comply with the Commissioner's regulatory authority. See Cal. Fin. Code § 50124(a)(7).

· ' ;•

. .

л,

. 1

. !

Since August 2001, the Commissioner has conducted 1 examinations of WFHMI under the CRMLA without any objection from WFHMI 2 and commenced three examinations under CFLL. On or about December 4, 3 2002, the Commissioner demanded that WFHMI submit to an audit of its 4 residential mortgage loans made in California during 2001 and 2002, so 5 he could identify whether loans existed where per diem interest was 6 7 charged in violation of California law. Between December 2002 and January 2003, Plaintiffs' counsel requested and received more time to 8 respond to the Commissioner's demand. On or about January 17, 9 2003, the Commissioner sent a letter to WFHMI's counsel requesting 10 WFHMI's compliance with the audit demand by January 23, 2003. 11

12 On or about January 22, 2003, WFHMI sent a letter to the 13 Commissioner objecting to his request, and expressly stating since 14 WFHMI is an operating subsidiary of a national bank it is only subject to the OCC's visitorial powers. Plaintiffs subsequently sued the 15 16 Commissioner in this federal lawsuit, alleging federal preemption 17 claims and seeking "to prevent the Commissioner from requiring WFHMI 18 to be licensed in order to operate lawfully in California, or in the 19 alternative, from taking away those [California] licenses." (First 20 Am. Compl. ¶ 3.)

21 On February 4, 2003, the Commissioner instituted two separate administrative proceedings to revoke WFHMI's CRMLA and CFLL 22 23 licenses, based on the Commissioner's findings that WFHMI violated Financial Code §§ 50204, subdivisions (i), (j), (k) and (o) and 24 25 50307(b). The Commissioner opined that a fact or condition existed, 26 which if known at the time of original licensure, would have justified the Commissioner's refusal to issue the license; and that therefore 27 28 the information constituted grounds to revoke WFHMI's licenses.

1 | Because of the Commissioner's institution of license revocation 2 || proceedings, Plaintiffs added a retaliation claim to their Complaint. 3 Ruling on Retaliation Claim В. 4 Plaintiffs have not presented facts controverting the 5 | Commissioner's evidentiary showing that he was going to exercise his regulatory authority over WFHMI whether or not it challenged him in a 6 7 lawsuit, and that his decision to invoke licensing revocation B proceedings against WFHMI was not "infected with a retaliatory motive 9 traceable to [Plaintiffs' filing this federal action]." Huang v. Bd. of Governors of Univ. of N.C., 902 F.2d 1134, 1141 (4th Cir. 1990). 10 11 Summary judgment jurisprudence required Plaintiffs to controvert the Commissioner's evidentiary showing (that his licensing 12 revocation decision was not infected by a retaliatory motive) with 13 || more evidence than the evidence indicating that the federal lawsuit 14 played a role or was a motivating factor in the licensing revocation 15 decision. Plaintiffs were obligated to show that "but for" the filing 16 of this federal lawsuit the Commissioner would not have taken the 17 alleged retaliatory action. Id. at 1140. The Commissioner points to 18 WFHMI's violation of California Financial Code $5 50204(i),(j),(k) and 19 (o), 50307(b), and WFHMI's refusal to submit to his regulatory 20 authority notwithstanding its obligation to do so as a California 21 licensee as justification for his initiation of the license revocation 22

23 proceedings. Since a jury could not reasonably find "the requisite.
24 'but for' causation," the Commissioner's summary judgment motion on 25 Plaintiffs' retaliation claim is granted. Id.

26 V. § 1983 and § 1988 Claims

The Commissioner also argues that Plaintiffs' claims in counts I-III of their Complaint are not actionable under § 1983 because they are premised solely upon preemption, which will not 1 support a § 1983 action. The Commissioner contends since Plaintiffs 2 have not established a $ 1983 claim, Plaintiffs' requests for 3 attorney's fees under $ 1988 is also unavailing. 4 The Commissioner relies primarily on White Mountain Apache 5 Tribe v. Williams, 810 F.2d 844 (9th Cir. 1987), where the Ninth 6 Circuit held, "although the Supremacy Clause can be used to enjoin 7 enforcement of a state statute that runs afoul of a federal 8 legislative scheme, it does not provide a basis for a claim under 9 section 1983." Western Air Lines. Inc. v. Port Authority of New York 10 and New Jersev, 817 F.2d 222, 226 (2d Cir. 1987) (discussing the 11 holding in White Mountain.) 12 The primary function of the Supremacy Clause is to 13 define the relationship between state and federal law. It is essentially a power conferring 14 provision, one that allocates authority between the national and state governments; thus, it is 15 not a rights conferring provision that protects 16 the individual against government intrusion. The distinction between the two categories of constitutional controls has been enunciated by 17 Professor Choper: 18 When a litigant contends that the mational government (usually the Congress, but occasionally 19 the executive, either alone or in concert with the Senate) has engaged in activity beyond its delegated authority, or when it is alleged that an attempted state regulation intrudes into an area 20 21 of exclusively national concern, the 22 constitutional issue is wholly different from that posed by an assertion that certain government 23 action abridges a personal liberty secured by the Constitution. The essence of a claim of the latter 24 type -- which falls into the individual rights category of constitutional issues . . . -- is that 25 no organ of government, national or state, may undertake the challenged activity. In contrast, 26 when a person alleges that one of the federalism provisions of the constitution has been violated, he implicitly concedes that one of the two levels of government -- national or state -- has the 27 28 power to engage in the questioned conduct. The

2

3

4

5

6

7

8 ч, i

'n

core of the argument is simply that the particular government that has acted is the constitutionally improper one. To put it another way, a federalism attack on conduct of the national government contends that only the states may so act; a federalism challenge to a state practice asserts that only the central government possesses the exerted power; neither claim denies government power altogether. . .

We believe that § 1983 was not intended to encompass those constitutional provisions which allocate power between the state and federal government.

9 White Mountain Apache Tribe, 810 F.2d at 848.

10 Plaintiffs counter that the viability of their $ 1983 claims 11 is governed by the United States Supreme Court's decision in Golden 12 State Transit Corp. v. City of Los Angeles, 493 U.S. 103 (1989), which 13 Plaintiffs contend abrogated the holding in White Mountain Apache 14 Tribe. In Golden State, "the Supreme Court held that an enforceable 15 statutory 'right' arises when (1) the plaintiff is an intended 16 beneficiary of the statutory provision at issue, (2) the statute 17 creates a binding obligation rather than merely a congressional 18 preference for a certain kind of conduct, and (3) the plaintiff's 19 interest is not so vague and amorphous as to be beyond the competence 20 of the judiciary to enforce." Eric L. By and Through Schierberl v. 21 Bird, 848 F. Supp. 303, 308 (D.N.H. 1994) (citing Golden State).

Only the third element is decided since Plaintiffs' assertion of preemption interests in this case conflates WFHMI's federal interests with the state obligations WFHMI had as a California licensee in a manner that causes Plaintiffs' federal interests to lack a judicially manageable standard. In this lawsuit, Plaintiffs prosecuted conflicting claims: WFHMI held California licenses that subjected it to the Commissioner's visitorial powers to which it

:,

ć

í

8.1

 $\{\cdot\}$

14

1 refused to submit and yet it fought the Commissioner's attempt to 2 revoke those California licenses. The essence of the position WFHMI 3 took was that it could renege on its California licensing requirements 4 and yet continue to be a California licensee, because as an 5 instrumentality of a national bank, it could operate in California 6 under the OCC's licensing and exclusive visitorial powers.

7 In light of the context in which Plaintiffs' allege § 1983 8 claims, the judiciary is ill-equipped by the Act's terms to determine 9 the contours of those claims. Therefore, the Commissioner prevails on 10 this issue.

Additionally, since Plaintiffs' § 1983 claim in count IV is premised on the retaliation that has been adjudicated in favor of the Commissioner, no § 1983 claims remain in this action. Since Plaintiffs' attorney's fees claim under 42 U.S.C. § 1988 is dependent on the § 1983 claims that have been decided in the Commissioner's favor, the § 1988 claim is dismissed.

17 IV. Permanent Injunction

18

A. Applicable Standards

"The requirements for the issuance of a permanent injunction 19 are the likelihood of substantial and immediate irreparable injury and 20 21 the inadequacy of remedies at law." Easyriders Freedom F.I.G.H.T. v. 22 Hannigan, 92 F.3d 1486, 1495 (9th Cir. 1996). "[To] meet this 23 standard, the plaintiffs must establish actual success on the merits, 24 and that the balance of equities favors injunctive relief." Walters 25 v. Reno, 145 F.3d 1032, 1048 (9th Cir. 1998). Where an injunction is 26 sought against an agency of state government, the injunction must be 27 scrutinized closely "to make sure that the remedy protects the 28 plaintiffs' federal constitutional and statutory rights but does not require more of state officiels then is necessary to assure their 1 compliance with federal law." Clark v. Cove, 60 F.3d 600, 604 (9th 2 Cir.1995). "This requires both that there be a determination that the 3 conduct of the [Commissioner] violates federal constitutional law. . . 4 and that the scope of the injunction is no broader than necessary to 5 provide complete relief to the named plaintiffs. . . . " Easyriders 6 Freedom F.I.G.H.T., 92 F.3d at 1496. 7 8

í,

٩.

ì.

9

₿.

Irreparable Harm and Inadequate Remedy at Law

As already discussed, Plaintiffs have established actual success on the merits of their preemption claims. In addition, they 10 are able to show "the likelihood of substantial and immediate 11 irreparable injury and the inadequacy of remedies at law." Id. at 12 🖁 1495. The Commissioner has represented that "(e)ven if a claim of 13 federal preemption were made, Article III, Section 3.5 of the 14 California Constitution mandates that the Commissioner enforce the 15 laws under his jurisdiction until an appellate court has made a 16∦ determination that the enforcement of the law is prohibited by federal 17 law or regulation." (Def.'s Memo. at 35.) Therefore, despite this 18 Court's ruling on the present motion, the Commissioner may still 19 attempt to exercise visitorial powers over Plaintiffs and seek to 20 enforce California's per diem statutes against them. Such action 21 would significantly disrupt Plaintiffs' business activities and cause 22 substantial irreparable economic loss. 23 ||

Since Plaintiffs have shown the relevant provisions of the 24 California law are preempted by federal law and that they will suffer 25 irreparable harm if the Commissioner is not enjoined from enforcing 25 B those provisions, then "the question of harm to [California] and the 27 28 matter of the public interest drop from the case, for [Plaintiffs]

しい ひとう ひとう どいかりつう will be entitled to injunctive relief, [since] . . . the public 1 2 interest will perforce be served by enjoining the enforcement of the [preempted] provisions of state law." Bank One, Utah v. Guttau, 190 3 📗 F.3d 844, 847-48 (8th Cir. 1999). Therefore, Plaintiffs' motion for a 4 permanent injunction is granted. Accordingly, the Commissioner and 5 agents acting on behalf of the Commissioner are enjoined from 6 exercising visitorial powers over Plaintiffs and from enforcing 7 California Financial Code § 50204(o) and California Civil Code θ § 2948.5 against Plaintiffs. 9 The Clerk of the Court is directed to enter judgment in 10 favor of Plaintiffs on their Supremacy Clause preemption claims and in 11 favor of the Commissioner on Plaintiffs' retaliation, § 1983, and 12 13 § 1988 claims. 14 IT IS SO ORDERED. 15 DATED: May 9, 2003 16 17 GARLAND E. BURRELL, JR. UNITED STATES DISTRICT JUDGE 18 19 20 21 22 23 24 25 26 27 28 31